

"The Desert Song"

Mr. Pegler and Mr. Sokolsky probably considered it poetic justice because shortly after I killed their syndicated columns out of The Star in July I was called to Florida and had to cancel this column also.

But merit, as sometimes happens, had little to do with any of it. In a six-page package like The Star it is nonsense to try to handle a variety of opinion-columns and risk the loss of fact-news which should have occupied the preeminent space. And for an equally inevitable reason my own column disappeared — my father, 84, is ill, and I spent four weeks with him.

Of course in the last analysis I am back in print and Mr. Pegler and Mr. Sokolsky aren't. And that isn't a matter of merit, either. It is simply that my locally-written column, regardless of quality, has the invaluable faculty of being able to emphasize events and issues on the home front. My point is well established by Paul Jones' performance in his column All Around the Town, which is wholly local.

It's good to be back — and later on I'll have a few notes about what happened on the road.

Last Monday, September 14, Ray Lawrence, J. L. Liebling, and your editor went to Shreveport for a conference with R. Matthias, executive vice-president of the Red River Valley association, on the matter of reactivating the Millwood dam project.

Mr. Matthias will be in Hope this Monday night for a further conference — and I suggest that this project has immediate and far-reaching consequences for all our southwestern counties. Here is a summary of what we found out at Shreveport a week ago:

1. The Eisenhower administration has advised the Corps of Engineers to round up all feasible river projects and put them in shape for the launching of a public works program — and the Millwood dam, originally given No. 1 priority in the Red River valley schedule, still holds first importance in the engineers' eyes.

2. Millwood being strictly a flood-control project without any restriction as to withdrawal of water because of hydro-power commitments, Narrows reservoir has electric generators; Millwood won't this summer project offers unlimited surplus water supplies to the cities and farmlands of our region.

3. In assuming that Texarkana might be equally interested in obtaining water rights at Millwood long with Hope, Nashville, Prescott, and others, we found we were correct. Texarkana did obtain some water rights in the construction of the Texarkana reservoir, recently dedicated as part of the river flood control system, but the intervention too late to alter the capacity of the reservoir sufficient for municipal and industrial purposes. Therefore, Texarkana has decided itself on record for the river association, looking for additional water rights at Millwood whenever that project reaches the construction stage.

4. This is a material help, of course, in organizing a regional water district such as they have in the Far West when cities co-operate with a federal reservoir project. But we also need state help. The federal government likes to have state backing for newly-organized water districts.

This brings us up to tonight's meeting with Mr. Matthias — and my guess is that the Millwood project is going to be a live public question from now on until the little river is finally harnessed.

I saw and heard "The Desert Song" Sunday night at the Saenger, the most beautiful of the three productions that have been made in this story since the movies began to talk. This one stars Gordon Rhea and Kathryn Grayson, with some story departure from the others, and a good deal more humor.

Previous productions of "The Desert Song" were the 1944 edition, so by Warner Brothers studio, starring Dennis Morgan and Irene Manning; and that first one back the early days of sound pictures, probably about 1933, with John H. Hallman, I believe, Vivien Segal, saw them all. "The Desert Song" is a perennial for everyone who loves good music and the light dramatic touch — plus the sly humor which has been injected into its 1933 edition.

Jury to Probe Icebox Deaths

ARION — The Crittenden Circuit Grand Jury was called into special session today to delve into deaths of five children who suffocated in an old icebox last Aug.

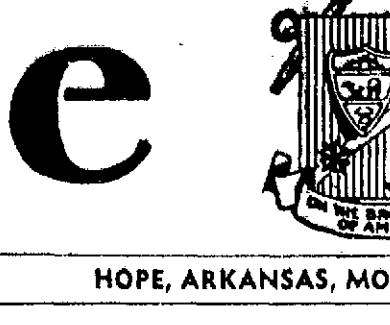

About 20 witnesses were subpoenaed. The session was expected to last at least one full day, possibly two.

Circuit Judge Zal Harrison of Little Rock called the session to consider reports of possible foul play. The tragedy was listed officially as an accident, but the dead children's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Hallman, have said they thought it was murder.

The victims were Edward, 8; Wesley, 7; Barbara Ann, 2; and Tommy, 4-year-old twins. The unused icebox was on the porch of the Hallmans farm near Proctor.

Ike May Fly to Boston, Reply to Criticism

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower flew to Massachusetts today for a Boston speech which he may use to reply to criticism of his administration by Adlai E. Stevenson and former President Truman.

Accompanying the President, along with staff aides, were Secretary of Commerce and Mrs. Sinclair Weeks, Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.), Henry Cabot Lodge, head of the U. S. delegation to the United Nations, and Mrs. Katherine Howard, assistant civil defense administrator and longtime Republican National Committee official.

Eisenhower, who returned over the weekend from a Colorado vacation, planned to drive from Westover Air Force Base States West-exposition grounds at Springfield.

After luncheon there with Gov. McNamara, he will fly to Boston.

Russia Calls for Ban on A-H Weapons

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — Russia called upon the U. N. today to impose an unconditional ban on the production of atomic and hydrogen weapons without delay.

The Soviet proposal was laid before the 60-nation General Assembly during a major policy declaration by Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei G. Vishinsky.

The Soviet delegates also served notice that Russia was ready to make a vigorous fight to get the Assembly to revise its earlier decision barring nuclear countries as representatives at the Korean peace conference. The Communists demands on this, he said, are justified and must be met.

The Soviet proposals on atomic control included hydrogen weapons by name, but otherwise followed closely Soviet disarmament resolutions of previous sessions.

Vishinsky assailed the United States as the real cause of world tension, charged Western policy in Germany threatened to touch off a new war and declared the North Atlantic Treaty Organization was aimed at weakening the U. N.

The Soviet disarmament resolution—first Soviet move on this subject since the death of Stalin and the accession of Georgi Malenkov to power—had four points:

One Arrested, One Sought in Fulton Burglary

The burglary of McGill's Service Station at Fulton several weeks ago has been solved, Sheriff C. Cook and State Officer Paul Porterfield announced today.

Don Hayward, 19, of Fulton has been arrested and admits the burglary. Officers said also sought is his partner, Louis Edward Rateliff of Fulton. Sam McGill reported several hundred dollars in cash and merchandise as missing.

Hayward led Troopers Boyd and Gibson to a point near Mandeville where part of the loot was recovered. Sheriff Cook and Porterfield said Hayward had admitted the pair stole an auto from Hinson's Motor Company at Texarkana, drove to Fulton, and broke into the station. They later abandoned the car at Mandeville where it was found.

Arrest of Rateliff is expected soon.

If You Think You Are Growing Old Too Fast, Take Time Out and Look at a Baby Spring Up

By HAY BOYLE
NEW YORK — If you think you are growing old too fast, take a look at a baby sometime. Nothing ages so quickly as a baby growing up. It is positively alarming. The speed with which they grow is amazing.

I am now the 8-week-old adopted father of a 3-month-old girl. At first I called her "Little Jughead," but now Frances makes me call her "Tracy," short for Margaret Tracy Ann Kathleen.

"This baby is not going to grow up hearing herself referred to as 'Little Jughead,'" my wife said firmly. "And that's final, Muscles."

On the other hand, I'm not too sure how Tracy will react when she is a little older and learns she was named after a tugboat. For years Frances and I have loved to look out at the busy, merry little tugboats chugging up and down the East River. Each has "Tracy" painted on its smokestack.

But just in case "Little Jughead" — I mean Tracy — doesn't share our admiration for the sound of the name and its sturdy symbol, we gave her three more names she can pick from if she chooses.

I've always thought the fair thing to do is to insert an "X" in every child's birth certificate. The "X" would stand for any name she might want to insert later, a name she herself might decide upon.

It's an odd experience, suddenly finding yourself a new-born parent at the threshold of middle age. Many more mature, wiser parents say:

"You think she's fun now. Wait until she can walk and talk. Then they really begin to be wonderful."

The funny thing is, we aren't at all anxious for her to grow older. After she learns to walk, she might walk out of our lives, leaving them empty. When she learns to talk, she might tell us we're silly.

Southwest Meet of Farm Bureau Scheduled Here

Monday night at 7:45 in the County Courtroom at Hope, a Southwest Arkansas District meeting will be held by Farm Bureau for representatives of County Farm Bureau organizations of the area. All Farm Bureau members are invited to attend by Ned Purdie, of Hope, Hempstead County President.

The purpose of the meeting, one of thirteen being held over Arkansas during the last two weeks in September, is to promote maximum membership participation in Farm Bureau policy development. The Arkansas Farm Bureau now has 53,000 individual family memberships, the largest in the history of the independent farm organization.

In urging the attendance of officers and other members at tonight's meeting, Mr. Purdie said that successful policy development procedures provide every member an opportunity to help build sound public policies affecting agriculture. As a minority group, farmers must develop sound policies in the best interests of the nation, as well as for agriculture, if their interests are to be protected.

Recession Would Ease Dollar Policy

By STERLING F. GREEN
WASHINGTON — The "hard dollar" policy of the Eisenhower administration will be eased promptly if a business recession looms, a leading banker told the American Bankers Assn. (ABA) today.

Roy L. Reiser, vice president of the Bankers Trust Co., New York assured the groups 79th convention here the government will stick to its "mildly restrictive credit policy while business booms."

But the Federal Reserve Board's quick corrective action this spring, when swiftly rising interest rates and a credit squeeze "distressed and disorganized the financial markets, proved the alertness of the money managers in Washington," Reiser said. He added:

"In an economic downturn, the authorities will almost certainly shift rapidly toward a pronounced easing of credit."

Reiser suggested that interest rates have reached their peak but show no sign of early decline. He said credit may be moderately tighter the rest of this year, but "a business downturn would accentuate the seasonal easing of credit in early 1954."

Few of the 7,000 delegates seemed to expect more than a mild and brief readjustment in the wake of the mobilization boom. Most of those interviewed avoided even the word "recession." To a man they approved the "sound money" policy of the Republican administration.

Search Continues for Plane Crew

CHARLESTON, S. C. — The search for seven missing members of a B29 hurricane hunter plane which crashed into the Atlantic Friday was continued today by the Coast Guard.

Meanwhile, 15 survivors, nine of them from a rescue plane which was damaged by rough seas as it attempted to pick up survivors of the B29, were scheduled to arrive in New York today on the cruise ship Nassau.

Official Skeptical of Report That Beria Has Escaped From Russia, Wants Asylum in U. S.

WASHINGTON — Government officials took a highly skeptical attitude today toward a report — under investigation by Senate agents — that Lavrenty Beria, deposed Soviet secret police boss, has escaped from Russia and hopes for political asylum in the United States.

These were developments in what would be, if true, one of the most sensational cloak-and-dagger incidents of generations:

1. Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) publicly acknowledged for the first time that his Senate investigations subcommittee has received a report that a mysterious figure, in hiding in a non-Communist country, claims to be Beria. He said "I am not convinced" and declined to say what his subcommittee is doing in the matter.

2. A Senate source said a subcommittee agent who would know whether the man is in fact Beria has gone to contact him and should make a report in a couple of days.

McCarthy told a reporter he would tell him this much on the record:

"I know a man who claims to be Beria and who resembles Beria has shown up outside Russia and is in hiding in a non-Communist country. At this point I am not convinced he is Beria."

It was the senator's first public statement on the week end reports from a high Senate source that his subcommittee had sent agents overseas to check on the story.

A person familiar with the Senate group's operations said, however, that investigators are convinced Beria has escaped from Russia and is hiding, in terror of his life, in a neutral European country.

Doctor Who Delivered Quads Dies

MURFREESBORO — The doctor who delivered the famous Arkansas Ponder Quadruplets in Murfreesboro last year, Dr. Melvin Dawsey Duncan, is dead as the result of a heart attack. He was 55.

Death came yesterday to Dr. Duncan at his Murfreesboro home. He had practiced medicine here since 1928.

On the night of Jan. 14, 1952, Dr. Duncan was called to the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Ponder near here. About an hour after he got there, Duncan had successfully delivered the quadruplets — three boys and a girl.

The quads were rushed to a hospital in Nashville and placed in incubators. The babies—Dewey Ray, Danny Kay, Dickie Gay and Donna Fay — are now living with their parents.

Dr. Duncan was a native of Ark. He graduated from the Kansas City Medical School in 1920. Survivors include the widow; a son, Richard of Little Rock and a daughter, Mrs. Victor A. Miller of Randallstown, Md.

Police Report Two Accidents

Two accidents were investigated by City Police over the weekend and both resulted in minor damage.

Saturday, downtown on S. Walnut a car driven by Kenneth D. Smith hit the back end of a parked truck owned by Irvin McFadden. Officers Compton and Rowe said the front end of the auto was damaged.

Also on S. Walnut at Third an auto driven by Carl Stewart rammed the back end of a stopped auto driven by Bobby William Hampton of Palmos Route One. Investigating officer Anderson said the front of Stewart's auto was damaged slightly.

Reds Say Many of 3,404 Never Captured at All

By ROBERT TUCKMAN
PANMUNJO — The Communists said today they "never captured" most of the 3,404 Allied troops for whom the U. N. Command has demanded an accounting and the Allies angrily called the reply "totally unsatisfactory and unacceptable."

At the same time, the Communists demanded an accounting for 98,742 North Koreans and Chinese they said were captured by the Allies and are missing.

The long-awaited Red answer was to the Sept. 9 Allied demand that the Communists produce the 3,404 men — including more than 900 Americans — or disclose what happened to them.

PANMUNJO — The Communists said today most of the 3,404 Allied troops for whom the U. N. Command demanded an accounting "have never been captured at all."

At the same time the Communists demanded an accounting for 98,742 North Koreans and Chinese they said were captured by the Allies and are missing.

The Reds gave their long-awaited answer to the Sept. 9 Allied demand that the Communists produce the men or disclose what happened to them at a meeting of the Joint Military Armistice Commission.

The missing troops — more than 900 Americans, 2,400 South Koreans and nearly 50 from the British Commonwealth and other Allied nations — were once believed captured but neither released in the prisoner exchange nor reported dead.

The Reds called the Allied list "crudely manufactured" without having been carefully "checked," but reserved the right "to make further concrete comment."

The Reds said 519 of the 3,404 Allies listed as missing already have been returned. They said 380 others were "released at the front" during the war, had escaped, or are dead.

They said part of the remainder refused repatriation but "most of the total have never been captured at all."

The Reds are expected to deliver to the demilitarized zone Thursday more than 300 South Koreans and about 20 non-Korean prisoners not otherwise identified who they say refused repatriation. The following day, U. N. Command interview teams are expected to start trying to persuade them to return home, in accordance with the armistice terms.

About 23,000 North Korean and Chinese POWs have refused repatriation.

The Allies by Monday night expected to have transferred all but about 2,300 and Red North Koreans and a handful of Chinese into custody of Indian troops in the demilitarized zone. The deliveries were to end Wednesday.

Conservation Program Must Be Carried Out

Since there are only three and one-half months remaining in the 1953 program year, it is very important that farmers of the county holding prior approvals for conservation practices make arrangements for carrying out these practices at the very earliest feasible date. Under program regulations, producers who do not follow through on the prior approvals will lose the assistance set aside for use on their farms.

All or a part of these under earnings will be used in making payments to other farmers who carry out conservation practices up to their maximum farm assistance. The County Committee urges all farmers with prior approvals to make every effort to use the assistance allocated to their respective farms, since it is felt that every farmer in Hempstead County can be benefited by the event conditions have changed since commitments were made. In the event conditions contact and producers will not be able to complete the practices originally requested they may substitute new practices for the ones formerly approved. However, this will require some time and the matter should be attended to as soon as convenient.

The following conservation practices may be successfully carried out during the remainder of this year:

1. Establishing or improving permanent pasture by seeding fescue, ryegrass, ladino and white clover and crimson clover.
2. Establishing a cover of small grain for soil protection and improvement.
3. Growing green manure or cover crops by seeding hairy vetch, Austrian winter peas, singletary peas, and crimson clover.
4. Construction of terraces to control the flow of water on sloping land.
5. Construction of drainage ditches on farm land to dispose of excess water.
6. Construction of stock ponds on farms without an adequate supply of stock water.
7. Timber stand improvement of farm woodlands.
8. Planting or interplanting adapted tree seedlings.
9. Application of limestone, potash, and superphosphate in connection with soil conserving crops.

Fair prices for winter legumes and pasture grass seed have been established and the county office is now ready to issue purchase orders up to the minimum allowance on most of these seed.

Purchase orders may also be obtained for agricultural limestone, potash, superphosphate, stock ponds, terraces, and drainage ditches.

For additional information, please feel free to contact the county PMA office at any time.

Murphy was a prisoner of war 18 months until released in the recent exchange with the Chinese in Korea. Max wasn't able to tell his parents just when he would be home but is hopeful it will be soon. He was wounded before being captured and his parents feel he may be sent to a hospital for a checkup before returning home.

Reese Chambers snagged a five and a half foot alligator gar in Little River over the weekend with some assistance of Fred Grisham. They estimated the Gar weighed a little more than 100 pounds.

It took over 20 minutes to land the fish and exhausted both men, incidentally they didn't have a gun along and had to land the Gar alive. Citizens Bank held a fish fry Saturday night for its baseball team which won the Little League title. Attending were Olin Lewis, Coach Earl Martin and Recreation commissioners J. Liebling and Albert Gray.

SEOUL — A daring North Korean officer today flew a CIG jet over to the Allies and Seoul newspaper said the plane was one of the latest models, a twin-jet MIG-17.

A Fifth Air Force spokesman, asked to comment on the published report, said the Air Force "cannot confirm anything that the Seoul press reports."

Far East Air Force headquarters had announced it was a MIG-15, the swift, mass produced type which carried the brunt of the fighting for the Red Air Force during the war.

The newspaper, Tong-A Ilbo, said the MIG was a 17 with two 37MM cannon and two 20MM cannon. It quoted an officer who had seen the plane speed in, but did not identify the officer.

It also reported that the pilot was a North Korean captain named Noh Keum Suk, and that he flew from an airfield at Sunan, about 10 miles north of the Red Korean capital of Pyongyang, or have been any indications it was.

Ousted Egypt Premier, 12 Others Jailed

Cairo (AP) — President Mohamed Naguib's government arrested former Premier Mustafa Nahas, his wife and 12 other one-time Egyptian bigwigs today. All 14 face trial before a special court created to deal with "traitors" to the revolutionary regime and corruption during the time of ex-King Farouk.

No specific charges were announced against any of the 14. It also was not known when they would appear before the court.

The roundup came as the three-man special tribunal prepared to begin trials of alleged plotters. The court hearings were scheduled to open today and to remain in session throughout the three-year "transition period" — proclaimed last January — in which Egypt is operating under a provisional constitution. Political parties have been banned during that period.

Those arrested today included leaders of two once powerful political parties, several close advisers of Farouk and other persons previously accused of corruption under the monarchy.

Nahas, premier of the Wafdist government that governed Egypt from 1940 to 1952, his wife, and Hafez Afifi, former chief of Farouk's Royal Cabinet, were put under house arrest.

The other 11 were taken into custody by military police. They included:

Abraham Abdel Hady, a leader of the Saadist party and premier during the 1948 Palestine War.

Abraham Farag, former cabinet minister and a spokesman for Nahas Wafdist party.

11 Arkansans Make Income Tax Settlement

WASHINGTON — Federal tax collectors so far this year have collected 11 Arkansas income tax cases without insisting on the last dime due.

The 11 cases were settled for $54,890 whereas the government originally claimed a total of $133,191 in unpaid taxes, penalties and interest. This figures about 40 cents on the dollar.

By making such settlements, the taxpayers avoid a forced sale of their assets. In many cases the Internal Revenue Bureau notes that a forced sale would not produce sufficient revenue to satisfy the government claim.

In one Arkansas case the settlement report noted that the husband, now deceased, had made fraudulent returns without knowledge of his wife against whom the claim was filed.

In another case a settlement was made where the husband was ill and the wife was struggling to support the family and pay the bills.

Arkansas cases settled thus far this year, together with the amount of taxes, penalty and interest claimed and the amount of the settlement, include:

Ishmael and Audrey L. Fullington (Vito-O-Ray Milling Co.) Fayetteville, total claim of $15,118 settled for $10,077; Claude Mitchell, Jackson, $1,708 for $100; Garlon and Wilma Nelson, Texarkana, $10,607 for $1,050; J. B. McClurkin, Magnolia $44,903 for $20,015; Cassiel L. and Frances M. Pittman, Hot Springs, $6,514 for $1,200; R. B. Johnston, Booneville, $3,125 for $292; Tom and Pauline Walker, Mena, $883 for $500; Juliette O. Kimbrough, W. Bradley Kimbrough, Richard A. Kimbrough and Warren O. North Korea and made a perfect landing at sprawling Kimpo Air Base near Seoul.

It was the first MIG to fall into Allied hands in Korea. The Russian-built, swept-wing fighters never left their own air over Red territory during the war.

The U. N. Command said the $100,000 reward offered for the first MIG to bolt to the Allies is still in effect.

There was no quick reaction from the Communists.

At first the Allies refused to identify the flyer, but later in Tokyo, Gen. O. P. Weyland, Far East Air Force commander, said he was a North Korean.

Weyland announced:

"The jet was from a 'North Korean air unit'."

It is being studied by U. S. Air Force officers.

The pilot's name will not be revealed unless he personally consents.

The North Korean will be granted an amnesty if he wants it.

The pilot disappeared behind a high wall of secrecy and Kimpo Air Base was closed to everyone but authorized military personnel.

A psychological warfare colonel near Seoul said America's Sabre jets lost the MIG over the southern boundary of the demilitarized strip across the Korean peninsula and oriented the Red fighter to Seoul.

However, the MIG apparently caught Kimpo Air Base by surprise.

A crowd gathered out to the runway after the plane stopped.

The pilot was described as short and black-haired.

An American pilot who met him said the flyer pulled a picture of a girl from his blue flying suit and tore it up. The American placed together the shreds of the picture, which he said "looked like a North Korean."

Col. Don P. Hall of Kinrossville, Tex., commander of the 4th Fighter Interceptor Wing, said the pilot was "smiling and very happy it was over with."

Hall said the MIG pilot got out of his plane and immediately saluted Capt. Ted Cipriano, Mission, Tex.

The captain was quite surprised, Hall said. "He got out of his Sabre jet and walked over to the MIG. A crowd of three hundred gathered around the plane."

The MIG pilot shook hands with all the men.

"The captain pointed toward the jet on the MIG and the MIG pilot turned off his switch. Air police immediately surrounded the plane and the MIG pilot seemed uneasy, that was the last I saw of him by the MIG," Hall said.

Asked why the pilot brought the MIG, Hall quoted him:

"I'm happy to leave communism."

"It is believed he knew of the reward," Hall said.

The pilot's first words were reported to be "O. K. I'm only other word I know is 'no'."

Hall said his clothing was "non-descript," a blue-colored flying suit, a leather jacket and light-colored shirt and flyline boots.

The pilot was armed, but he turned over his loaded pistol to Gen. Hall.

Hall said the Red pilot is about 25 years old and an officer.

Asked what the Air Force planned to do with the MIG, Hall explained:

"I do not know if we will fly the MIG but we will get the most out of it. We definitely will not give it to them as a trophy examination."

Hall said the plane may be taken to the United States for testing but indicated this had not been decided.

A spokesman said the Air Force has made pictures of the plane but they will not be released.

The MIG pilot was escorted into wing headquarters and given sandwiches and coffee.

Lt. Col. Samuel Anderson, 4th Air Force commander, and other top officers sped to talk with him. The pilot reportedly declined to meet newsmen.

The MIG was placed in a hangar by itself, flanked by armed air police.

The $100,000 offer was deemed to apply to the north for days in February with instructions on how to proceed. Leaflets were dropped over North Korea.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK — The Stock Market was higher today despite several areas of softness. Gains in some instances went to between 1 and 2 points, but the great majority of plus signs were small. Losses extended to around a point at the outside in significant areas.

Railroads were far out in front of the rest of the market while the automobiles were lagard. Also higher on balance were steels, utilities, oils, chemicals, aircrafts, and radio-televisions.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK — Cotton futures moved lower today on hedging and liquidation which met mostly weak down trade support. Hedging pressure was lighter than in the previous week, reflecting a disinclination of spot houses to hedge with futures so close to loan levels.

Late afternoon prices were 10 to 50 cents a bale lower than the previous close. Oct. 32.78, Dec. 33.08, arch 33.43.

Gen. Dean Is Back Home After 3 Years

TOKYO (UP) — Maj. Gen. William F. Dean, the highest-ranking prisoner of the Korean war, flew home today after three years in a Communist prison camp.

Dean, accompanied by eight other former American prisoners, left Haneda Airport in Tokyo at 3:30 p. m. (4:20 a. m. EDT).

He has been receiving treatment in Tokyo Army Hospital for dysentery contracted while a prisoner of the Communists.

Dean, 54, was captured in July, 1950, when his 24th Division was overwhelmed by 150,000 Korean forces near Taegon, South Korea. He was released Sept. 4 in the prisoner exchange following the truce.

Shortly after he received the Congressional Medal of Honor.

He plans to retire from the Army after 30 years of service.

In a farewell ceremony before leaving Tokyo, Dean received a salute from an honor guard at Gen. Mark W. Clark Far East headquarters.

In Berkeley, Calif., 19 members of Dean's family, including his wife, Mildred, and his mother gathered at the family home to await his arrival. They will be at Travis Air Force Base, Calif., when his plane lands in the United States tomorrow.

19 Members of Family Greet Dean

By THOMAS MCCARTHY

BERKELEY, Calif. (UP) — Nineteen "happy and nervous" members of Maj. Gen. William F. Dean's family gathered here today to await together for the returning hero of Taegon.

The Congressional Medal of Honor winner, America's most famous prisoner of war in Korea, was scheduled to arrive in the United States tomorrow. His plane lands at Travis Air Force Base, northwest of San Francisco.

Dean's family, including eight children, will leave the 54-year-old general's home here in a motorcade for Travis a short time before the announced arrival.

It will be the first time many of the children have seen Dean, notably his two grandchildren, Robert Dean Williams, 2½, and Ann, seven months. Dean has been in the Far East for six years, almost three of them spent in the hands of the Communists.

"We're terribly excited and happy and nervous," said the general's wife, Mrs. Mildred Dean. "We're all in a turbulence and when we get up in Travis Field we'll be more so. We're bound to be."

Mrs. Dean said the family hasn't planned any specific way to spend the last hours, except "a little shopping, maybe."

"But we're not chewing our fingernails," she said. "The babies keep us busy. They're on a schedule and keep us hopping."

The fighting general, commander of the U.S. 24th Infantry Division in the early holding battles of the war, was captured in August, 1950, after the Communists overran his outfit with the fall of Taegon.

"We'll let him look at television and just relax. The future can take care of itself. We're not going to rush into anything, but adjust to it gradually," he wise said.

"It's an adjustment for all of us, you know," she said.

She and Mrs. Elizabeth Dean, the general's mother, will travel to Travis in the same Army staff car that later will bring the general back to Berkeley.

The remainder of the family including Dean's 25-year-old daughter, June, and her husband, Army Capt. Robert C. Williams, will go by private auto. With the Williams' will be their two children, the general's grandchildren.

The others are Mrs. Clara Dean Rutledge, of Berkeley; Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Ver Meir, of Antioch, and their daughter, Judy, 4; Mr. and Mrs. David Robert Dean of Kenwood, and their three children, Karen, 11; John, 9, and Kathy, 4, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Downs of Concord, and their daughters, Diane, 2½, and Patricia, one.

It started when the transport Gen. Nelson M. Walker sailed through the Golden Gate with 325 repatriates Aug. 23. It continued with the hospital ship Haven. The Gen. W. F. Dean, the Marine Add-on, the Gen. John Pope, the Marine and the Gen. William Black and — yesterday — the Gen. A. W. Brewster.

Delicious, unrestrained joy has been the keynote. Soldiers once given up for dead have stood at the rail, yelling, laughing and crying at the sight of their loved ones on the dock. Mothers have fainted and fathers have sobbed openly.

Last Prisoners to Get Home Wednesday

By G. K. HODENFIELD

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Gen. R. L. Howe, ninth and last of the freedom ships returning liberated Americans to their homeland, docks at Ft. Mason Wednesday, concluding the greatest emotional binge the San Francisco waterfront has seen in years.

It started when the transport Gen. Nelson M. Walker sailed through the Golden Gate with 325 repatriates Aug. 23. It continued with the hospital ship Haven. The Gen. W. F. Dean, the Marine Add-on, the Gen. John Pope, the Marine and the Gen. William Black and — yesterday — the Gen. A. W. Brewster.

"DUCK SOUP" 'N' QUACKERS—Twins Sheryl Brauer, left and Deborah, 4, of Parma, Ohio, together with Margie Mottrines, 2, form a jeering section as Mama Duck and ducklings take over their wading pool. Neighbor William Lutz won the ducks at the Berea County Fair, and the pool was the only cool place he could find for the fowl as torrid temperatures baked the city.

UNUSUAL BLOOM—A lotus bloom isn't unusual in itself, but this one drew the attention of visitors at the International Flower Show at Hamburg, Germany. It grew on a plant fostered from a 2000-year-old seed found during excavation operations in Japan. The Japanese Horticultural Institute donated the plant to the show.

Separated Siamese Twins Improving

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Louisiana's famed Mouton Siamese twins are "out of danger," barring infection, Dr. L. L. Weissmiller, Foundation Hospital director, says.

Weissmiller added last night that the twin daughters of Mayor and Mrs. Ashton Mouton of Lafayette, La., are now completely bottle fed, and their condition "looks good."

The twins were separated last Thursday in history-making surgery.

Carolyn Anne and Catherine Anne, who will be two months old tomorrow, were given nourishment through their veins following the operation. Saturday the two babies were given formula for the first time, but also fed intra-venously until yesterday.

COTTON GROWERS

Do you want cotton prices to go back to 38c or 40c a pound?

If so, first place your cotton in the loan before offering it for sale. Should you decide to dump this crop as fast as you get it out, the chances are the price will continue to go on down to still lower levels.

Cooperate with us. Help us in our program to place a minimum of 5,000,000 bales in the loan. Let's work together and not let this crop sell under loan prices.

Committee Gets Authority on Drouth

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Drought Relief Committee today was authorized to suspend and reinstate the drought feed program in individual counties.

A spokesman for the Production and Marketing Administration here said he did not believe the authority would make it possible for the committee to reinstate nine Arkansas counties, which the U.S. Department of Agriculture at Washington dropped last week.

However, Rep. J. W. Trimble of Berryville said he talked to Washington by telephone this morning and it was his understanding that the nine counties could be put back in the program if the state committee wished.

The state committee already has asked the Department of Agriculture for reinstatement of the nine. The committee authority, set out in a telegram from the department, says that the program in a county may be suspended when conditions improve and reinstated if conditions later make such action advisable.

The telegram added, however, that the authority does not include designation of new counties, nor reinstatement of those officially removed.

The PMA spokesman said he believed the nine dropped last week had been officially removed.

The nine are Logan, Scott, Franklin, Yell, Sebastian, Polk, Newburg, near the Canadian border.

At the plant of the St. Johnsbury Caledonia, the Coopers were to inspect the newspaper's three-year-old, two-story building.

Newspaper officials planned to show the visitors the Associated Press teletypesetter perforator, then let them follow progress of a piece of copy through printing processes to press.

The Fort Smith, Ark., family will spend the night at St. Johnsbury House. Tomorrow, they will visit Stewie in the heart of the White Mountains.

He said he couldn't make a definite statement until he had had an opportunity to study the message. He said he was under the impression that Washington's action in dropping the nine counties was an official removal.

to talk, she might look around and say, "I don't know why I chose to adopt you two as parents. If I hadn't been rushed, I might have done better."

We would rather like to keep her small and helpless and changeless forever. The only thing we really like to change about her is her diaper.

But each morning when we wake her up, we see fresh signs of time upon her. She is springing up like a dandelion in spring.

She weighed only 11 pounds when she came to us. We have no scales yet, so the other day we asked the butcher if he would weigh her for us, a service he performs for many young parents in the neighborhood.

We spread a cloth on the scales, put the baby on it tenderly, and told the butcher to keep his thumb off the scales we wanted a fair weight.

"That'll be $17.46," he said after a quick glance at the scales. "Shall I wrap her up?" and then

Ike Needs Two Men for Key Positions

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON 20 — President Eisenhower is shopping around for two men to fill a couple of important jobs and, if he had to run an ad for them, this might be about it:

Wanted: One man, very thick-skinned, to be secretary of labor, salary $22,500; another, expert on injured feelings, as Chief Justice of the United States, salary $25,500. No clock-watchers need apply.

The new secretary of labor will have a busy year ahead of him, with long hours of work and no assurance that all his efforts won't end in smoke. He's almost sure to be a target for criticism.

Long hours go with the job of chief justice. After his day on the bench, in his office, in conference with the other justices, he has to take his work home with him.

The late Justice Vinson was an extraordinarily well-rounded man, with experience in Congress, in the executive branch and as judge in the U. S. Court of Appeals before he took over the Supreme Court's top job.

But he had an added virtue which was badly needed when former President Truman picked him: He was good at soothing injured feelings. At the time Vinson took over, there were differences among some of the other eight justices — personal as well as judicial differences.

It was a tribute to his ability as a doctor of personality that no more eternal explosions were heard after he moved into the court.

The new man will have that old problem to consider since Vinson probably didn't remove the ailment — just reduced the inflammation.

In other years the job of secretary of labor was a kind of mild occupation, particularly during the war years when Mrs. Frances Perkins held it.

In that period President Franklin D. Roosevelt set up the War Labor Board, under William H. Davis. It controlled wages and labor disputes, and thus Mrs. Perkins was left on the sidelines.

In the last years of the Truman administration, then Secretary of Labor Maurice Tobin was overshadowed by John R. Steelman whom Truman brought into the White House as his labor adviser.

Tobin made speeches. Steelman pulled the strings.

Unless Eisenhower also gets a string-pulling labor adviser, the new secretary will have his hands full from the start.

He'll have to work with Congress, unions, in a management and the White House in trying to change the Taft-Hartley Labor Relations Act. On that subject he can't please everyone.

It is almost certain the new secretary won't come from organized labor, as did his predecessor, Martin P. Durkin, president of the AFL Plumbers' Union. That would make him suspect by organized labor from the start.

Eisenhower said during the presidential campaign and in his February State of the Union message to Congress, that there was need for T-H Law changes.

But anyone who knew Washington and politics and the intense feeling over T-H — in Congress, unions and business — would have been surprised if any changes had been made this year.

T-H was passed in 1947 while the Republicans controlled Congress. In 1948 Truman won election on a platform promising to blast T-H. For the next four years the Democrats were in charge of Congress. But they didn't, or couldn't, blast T-H.

During his eight months as secretary, Durkin worked to find changes which Congress, unions, business and the White House would approve. He acted like a man who thought he was getting some place.

Then he quit, voicing frustration. The White House, he said, had broken an agreement reached with him to back 19 proposed T-H changes.

Durkin's successor will need a thicker skin.

The AFL, which seemed fairly restrained about administration delay in suggesting T-H changes while Durkin was on the scene, has now officially exploded at Eisenhower.

AFL President George Meany last week accused Eisenhower of being a weak leader unable to stand up under big business pressure.

In view of what hasn't been done to change T-H through four years of Democratic administration and one of Republican, it should come as no surprise if no changes are made in 1954, either.

for some reason this favorite joke of his with new parents always falls a bit flat he added quickly.

"She weighs 14 pounds and 3 ounces best-looking baby we've weighed all morning."

Now there's an honest butcher! At least when he's weighing babies.

This morning Tracy woke up, rubbing her lower gum hard. Her first tooth is trying to sprout. She had more hair on her head, too hair that she really doesn't need yet at all and her old man could use very well.

I went back and told the baby: "Take it easy, kid. Don't you know that every day you grow up, I grow that much down?"

And Tracy just looked up and smiled the smile of victory all young things have over age.

Prescott Couple Wins Farm Award

LITTLE ROCK 20 — Judges have announced the district winners in the Arkansas Rural Home Improvement Program contests.

To be eligible, rural home owners must own at least three acres, must have sold at least $500 worth of farm products during the year and can't have more than $12,000 invested in a home.

Southwest District: Mr. and Mrs. Odie Burroughs, Bismarck; Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Barksdale, Prescott; and Mrs. C. D. Frazier, Hot Spring county.

The sea otter has been rigidly protected by international agreement since 1910.

SNORER'S AID

If you're having trouble sleeping because of snoring noise, Jo Horstmann, of Hendingen, Germany, models a gadget which may help you. All the snorer has to do is find his "snoring position" and put the gadget on so that it gets bothersome when he assumes that position. The object is to force the snorer to find another way to sleep. It was invented by Albert Nelzow, who couldn't stand a relative's snoring.

Arkansas Urban Crime Has Dropped

WASHINGTON 20 — Urban crime rates in Arkansas were down slightly the first half of 1953 as compared with a year previous while the national trend rose sharply.

This was shown in a report by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, who said that if the present national trend continues the country is in for a new record in major crime.

Arkansas cities reporting to the FBI showed reductions in crime rates per 100,000 population in four of the six major crime categories. Increases were recorded in two.

Decreases were in robbery, aggravated assault, larceny and auto theft while the increases were in murder and non-negligent manslaughter and burglary.

Comparative rates for the categories for the first half of 1953 and 1952 per 100,000 population in the Arkansas cities were:

Murder and non-negligent manslaughter 5.74 for 1953 and 3.85 for 1952; robbery 18.5 and 20.7; aggravated assault 52.3 and 54.7; burglary 201.6 and 179.0; larceny 424.3 and 412.6; auto theft 55.7 and 60.9.

DOROTHY DIX

Her Little Secret

Dear Miss Dix: During the past few months I have become friendly (in the office, only) with a man at my place of employment. I think he may ask me out sometime. I am a divorcee, having separated from my husband seven years ago, and wonder how I should tell the man if he asks me to go out. Most people think I'm a widow.

A Revelation
Answer: If he asks you out, accept the invitation; then, during the evening, steer the conversation around to a point where your disclosure will fit into the general topic. There's no necessity for telling him unless he's sufficiently interested in you to ask for a date, but it would be unfair to leave him in ignorance once he has taken you out.

Dear Miss Dix: I'm a high school senior, and for two years have gone out with a man 15 years older than myself. My family knows and likes him. We see each other almost every night, and he is at all times a considerate gentleman. Would marriage be successful in our case?

Answer: Age differences are unpredictable factors in matrimony — as what isn't? Disparity of years, even quite a great one, is only one of the many things that can make or break a marriage. Where every other qualification is good, a difference in age alone is not sufficient to preclude future happiness.

Your case, for instance, seems to have been well thought out, since you and the young man are congenial. And with both families being agreeable, you certainly have as much chance of a good marriage as anyone.

Dear Miss Dix: Can you give me the name of a Lonely Hearts Club? I am a widow, 47, and very lonely. I have a good job, but no friends or relatives.

Answer: There is an element of risk in any club that purports to be able to make friends for you, and the risk is especially great if matrimony is involved. Sometimes these arranged friendships, or marriages, work out quite well, but more often they are dismal, if not tragic, failures. Do try to find your own friends. Your job, church, or a civic organization would do better than an unrecommended club.

Dear Miss Dix: I'm a girl of 18, dating a boy of 20 for the past year. Recently, he went into service.

Among the Pueblo Indians, earth is the woman's material — she builds in adobe and makes pots — but wood is the man's material — he makes tools, weapons, sculpture and timber roofs.

Hoover's figures were based on reports from 24 Arkansas cities.

Scotty Williams Gives Off With the Traditional Face-Twisting of Pro Wrestler in Coliseum Bout

At this moment in the Coliseum's feature bout last Tuesday, September 15, Scotty Williams was on top, but his ferocious assault didn't help him — for the man underneath, Karl Krause, eventually won the match. Interested observer is Referee Jack Gott.

DOGS

by Tom Farley

CHEWING

All puppies like to chew and about the fourth or fifth month, when they are losing their milk teeth, they particularly need something on which to gnaw without risking their disapproval. Special hard rubber or bone teething toys are fine, but don't let it be an old shoe or slipper or other object around the house. No little puppy mind is going to be able to distinguish between his shoe and yours — and understand why he can chew one and not the other.

When he does chew something, scold him promptly and elaborately. This should teach him better quickly.

The grown dog that chews the furniture or a corner of the rug while you are at home should be no problem because you can stop him with a command and scold or punish him. For the dog that chews things only when he is unobserved is a more concern.

Most instances of chewing (or, in extreme cases, of pulling down drapes and upsetting tables) are simply protests against being left alone. This usually occurs only with badly spoiled dogs, particularly those lacking the security that good training gives them.

There is no patented cure. Your best hope is to start a course of training immediately and try to give your dog the confidence he will gain by understanding the things that please and displease you.

For the strongest instinct in every dog is to gain the approval and love of his master.

Cup Team Is Annual Task of Golfdom

By Hugh Fullerton, JR.

OKLAHOMA CITY — The United States Golf Association now has the annual task of picking a "cup" team for men's international play. And from the results of the 1953 National Amateur Championship, some players who defended the Walker Cup against Britain early this month may be in for a surprise when the team is chosen to play Mexico and Canada for the Americas Cup next summer.

There's no question, of course, about the new champion, Gene Littler. He's in any time the Navy will let him out to play golf.

This rather shy Navy aviator from San Diego, Calif., probably is the best amateur golfer today. He plays the same kind of steady, thoughtful golf as Ben Hogan.

The hitch in Littler's case is that he still has 15 months to serve in his navy enlistment.

Dale Morey, whose biggest ambition now is to make the Walker Cup team, hardly can be overlooked for next year's lesser cup competition. He matched Littler, hole for hole before losing.

After these two, there's no telling how the other successful players in the 53rd championship will stack up a year from now. The others are Don Albey of Purdue, Bruce Cudd of Portland University, and Richard J. Jr., the national public Links champion, Bobby Kuntz, Jr., of the University of California, and the No. 1 alternate, Arnold Blum.

Marciano Meets LaStarra Thursday

By JACK HAND

CROSSING, N. Y. — Rocky Marciano, at the peak of his career, expects to cross the only disputed fight in his record Thursday night at the Polo Grounds.

East Greenwich, R. I., and Ray Palmer, Detroit.

Except Littler, the 1953 Walker Cuppers who want the farthest were ex-champion Sam Snead, Jim Jackson, Bill Campbell, and the No. 1 alternate, Arnold Blum.

England Has Big Problems at A-State

By FRED CHISENHALL

Of The Jonesboro Sun

NEW YORK — Another ruckus is shaping up nicely over the forthcoming election of the National League's most valuable player by a committee of 24 baseball writers.

You may recall that harsh words were written a year ago when the delegates from the west half of the league were accused by their eastern lodge brothers of having ganged up to elect Hank Sauer of the Chicago Cubs instead of Robin Roberts, the Phillies' "sacred cow" winner. The easterners still claim that one western bloc leader didn't name Roberts among his 10 descending choices.

Now the eastern oracles suspect there's another plot afoot to name Ed Matthews, Milwaukee's sensational third baseman, and keep the silverware in the west another year. They are stalling that any one capable of coming to three knows the only possible choice is Roy Campanella, the Brooklyn catcher, choose your weapons.

Only a small and select group of boxing writers witnessed the other fight between Rocky Marciano and Roland LaStarra here back in the spring of '50, most of the columnists having been far away at the time expiring the baseball training camps.

When you do run one of them down he is apt to be extremely hay about what happened that night except that in most cases, he's Roland LaStarra the winner. They were just a pair of fairly promising young heavyweights at the time, he will say, and he spent much of the evening admiring a blonde in the fourth row.

They do agree on one thing, namely, that if Roland thinks he will be fighting the same Rocky next Thursday night he's in for a bad shock. They can't recall that Rocky had much of a left hook in those days, and that's what he kills you with now.

One must assume that Rogers Hornsby has served his last say as a big league manager. It is too bad, for friend and foe alike agree that the former great 1934 league champion is one of the finest baseball brains in the business.

Gabe Paul, Cincinnati general manager, felt that he could get along with the gruff Rajah where others had failed. He must have been prepared to make concessions. But the blunt announcement of Hornsby's departure makes it apparently that Gabe found the job too big.

Another former employer of Hornsby told us: "He not only won't listen to you. He walks on you. That's hard to swallow."

The Indians also have four other top-ranking backs in Manuel Vial, Bobby Spain, Billy Dail and Rudy Wagner. Spain, a Little Rock boy who is an alert play-caller and a steady passer, is the number one choice to fill the gap created by Sommers.

Top linemen include tackle Jim (Rock) Petroff and Tom Manning, center Milford (Moose) Gelberg, and end Ronnie Allen.

The team also will be bolstered by the addition of Billy Templeton of Pocatongo, a sophomore who played on the University of Arkansas against determined Roland LaStarra.

"I'd like to clear that up," said the heavyweight champion after yesterday's sizzling workout. "It's the only fight there ever was any argument about. I always figured I'd fight him again."

He's a strong guy, one of the strongest I ever fought — at least as strong as Joe Walcott. But he doesn't hit like Walcott.

"I think I've improved an awful lot since the first fight with L.A. Star. After all, that was 3½ years ago."

Arkansas Opens Season Saturday

DALLAS — Two things were indicated in the Southwest Conference's opening week of football: The league is going to make quite a splash intersectionally but the touchdown output will be more modest.

Five conference teams started the campaign Saturday and four of them won intersectional clashes. Baylor was in the starring role, whipping California, 25-0.

Rice tumbled Florida 20-16; Texas A&M edged Kentucky and Texas Christian licked Kansas 14-0. Texas was clubbed 20-7 by Louisiana State.

A sixth member of the conference opened the season Saturday when Arkansas plays Oklahoma at Little Rock. Texas engages Villanova at Austin in a day game and Texas A&M tackles University of Houston at College Station. That will leave only Southern Methodist to open the campaign and the Methodists do it Oct. 3 against Georgia Tech at Atlanta. Baylor, Rice and TCU rest this week.

Last year on a comparable week, four games produced 127 points with 19 conversions in 21 attempts. The four games this season brought only 78 points and six points after touchdown in 12 efforts.

This indicates that abandonment of the two-platoon system is going to hold down the scoring.

Following their opening game against Abilene Christian, the Redskins have eight more games on the docket for the 1953 campaign.

The remainder of the schedule: Kansas State Teachers College at Emporia, Oct. 3; Alabama State Teachers College of Florence at State College, Oct. 10; Southwest Louisiana Institute at State College, Oct. 17; Lewis College at Marion, Oct. 25; Southern State College (Homecoming), Oct. 31; Memphis State at Memphis, Nov. 7; Tennessee Tech at Cookeville, Tenn., Nov. 14; and Nebraska State Teachers College of Kearney at State College, Nov. 21.

Southern State Comes Through

MA'NOLIA — The Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference came out with a 50 per cent average in last week's intersectional football skirmishes. Southern State won and Arkansas State Teachers lost.

The Molesters whipped East Central Oklahoma State, 25-13 Saturday night here on a passing and running attack spearheaded by Lewis Sanford who tossed one TD pass to end Whitley Tyler and raced off right tackle 55 yards for another tally.

Fullback Howard Carver plunged twice—once from the 1-yard mark and again from the 2, for touchdowns. Jimmy Hilton converted once.

Teachers lost to Southeast Missouri at Cape Girardeau, 27-14. ASTC couldn't start its machine rolling until the third quarter when it picked up two touchdowns on a 27-yard pass from Don Lawrence to James Morgan and a 55-yard sprint by Roy Dunbar after he intercepted a Southeast Missouri pass. Dunbar converted twice.

The Missourians' ground-hugging attack pushed across three touchdowns in the opening period and another in the fourth quarter.

The Bobcats make a long journey to El Dorado this weekend and chances for a victory are dim indeed for the local lads. In their first two games the Bobcats have been able to gain no more than a tie with Stamps and DeQueen.

And chances against the Big Seven team are doubly dimmed by the fact the Cats will go without the service of Raymond Churchwell who suffered an ankle injury at DeQueen and will be out for at least two weeks. Sonny Griffin also had an arm injury but is expected to be ready by Friday night.

El Dorado always strong, is reported to really have it this year. They held two victories over stout teams, an 18 to 6 win over Magnolia and last weekend romped over Fort Smith 24 to 0.

Hope seems to be getting stronger defensively and both opponents of the Bobcats were somewhat stronger than credited. Stamps proved this last weekend by swamping Prescott 32 to 0; and DeQueen will be heard from before the season is over. The Leopards boast 11 lettersmen, eight regular starters from last year's team.

Filling in for the injured Churchwell, the Bobcats' offensive key, will be sophomore Steve Marlar who is a hard runner that lacks only experience.

The rest of the team is in good shape.

AFL Likely to Kick Out Longshoremen

By NORMAN WALKER

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The AFL opened its annual convention today with leaders determined to kick the 60,000-member International Longshoremen's Association (ILA) out of the federation.

If convention delegates go along with the officers' proposal to oust the ILA, accused of harboring hoodlums and racketeers, the New York and New Jersey piers, a rival longshoremen's union will be suggested.

AFL President George Meany announced that the powerful AFL Executive Council had decided to recommend that the convention void the ILA's charter. Previously the council favored only suspending the ILA, but Meany said the ILA's failure to conduct a cleanup called for a stronger penalty.

"We had hoped," said Meany, "that our recommending suspension would spur the ILA into complying with our order of last February to rid the union of racketeers and questionable practices."

However, we've seen no action to indicate they are going to clean up the situation themselves. So we're stepping in."

Meany said that once the AFL convention follows the executive council advice and lifts the ILA charter, he will announce plans to set up a rival union to accept ILA members under new leadership. The convention may act tomorrow or Wednesday.

Two unions competing for members on the New York waterfront could lead to trouble. Complicating the situation is the fact the ILA's contracts with East and Gulf Coast shippers expire Oct. 1.

Accidents Account for 15 Lives

By The Associated Press

Traffic accidents accounted for 11 of the 15 reported violent deaths in Arkansas for the week ended midnight last night.

Six persons died yesterday—one in an accidental shooting, another in a drowning and the others in highway mishaps.

A 13-year-old boy, Jimmie Rand Robbins of near Malvern, accidentally shot himself to death through the forehead with a .22 rifle as he waded in the Ouachita River near Malvern.

Coroner R. W. Griswold ruled the death accidental. He said the boy, who had accompanied his father on a log cutting trip, slipped on a rock, causing the gun to discharge.

Harold Turner, 46-year-old Calhoun County carpenter, suffered a heart attack and tumbled out of a fishing boat on Pere Gulse Lake in Bradley County.

Coroner Byron Frazier ruled his death accidental drowning.

In other accidents yesterday, a 33-year-old Negro woman, Tracy Johnson of Stuckover, was found dead on Highway 7 north of Sankover. Coroner T. E. Barton said she was the victim of a hit and run automobile accident.

Two northeast Arkansas youths were injured fatally when the car in which they were riding went out of control and crashed into a bridge abutment on Highway 63 about three miles north of Jonesboro.

Sheriff Lonnie Cooper identified the dead youths as Milton D. Johnson, 17, of Walnut Ridge and Gary Davis, 12, of Bonn.

Another Bonn youth, Elmer Hester, 19, was critically injured. Two other youths were less seriously injured.

And a 12-year-old girl who was riding her bicycle near Black Oak, was injured fatally when she was struck by a car.

The dead girl was Wanda Fay Terry of Caraway, Ark. State Police said Shirley Copeland, 15, of Monette was driving the car.

A murder charge was expected to be filed today against a 39-year-old Franklin County farmer, Roy Ferguson, jailed in the fatal shooting of another farmer, Votz Benec, 40, in a feud over a dirt road in the Deneux Community near Ozark Saturday.

Near Cedarville Saturday, Mrs. Dovie McDonald, 38-year-old mother of six children, was killed when a car hit her as she crossed Highway 59. Her home was in Cedarville.

Charence Carroll Roberts, 32, of Wadsworth, Ark., was killed Saturday when the car in which he and five others were riding overturned on Highway 67 near Cabot.

State Farm Income Shows Decrease

By GORDON BROWN

WASHINGTON (AP)—Arkansas farmers headed into the last half of 1953 considerably behind last year in cash income from sale of crops and livestock.

A report by the Agriculture Department shows that the states farmers realized $134,477,000 from sale of crops and livestock the first six months of this year. This compares with $187,044,000 the first six months of 1952.

The 53-million dollar drop was due both to lower prices and to decreased marketings, the report indicated.

Most of the Arkansas decline came in reduced receipts from sale of crops — $53,575,000 first half of 1953 against $92,830,000 the first half of 1952. Much of the drop was attributed to smaller marketings of cotton and lower prices for this important crop.

However, money received by Arkansas farmers for livestock and livestock products also declined — from $94,786,000 the first half of 1952 to $80,902,000 the first half of this year.

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX
TWO men returned to the lobby. Cavanaugh said: "The woman in the green raincoat?" and McKee said: "Might be. We'll check on Eleanor Oaks" whereabouts at the time. He used the phone and got the manager of the apartment hotel on Park Ave. The personnel couldn't say whether Mrs. Oaks had been in or out from 4 to 6 last Monday.

Questions about the woman in the green raincoat produced blank stares from the clerks, the bell-boys, the checkroom girl, the doorman and a porter.

One of the elevator girls remembered Wilder clearly. "Big handsome guy on six? Sure. Looked like a movie star." Wilder had been in a dither about something when he was checking out; she had brought him down. Generally he had a word and a smile for her, but not that day. He was carrying two suitcases. She noticed, because one of them was good, nice leather, the other was a cheap thing made of straw.

Two suitcases. McKee had a mental picture of Wilder's room in the Denfield Inn, of one suitcase on the trunk rack at the foot of the bed. There might have been another in a closet. He rang the inn. Wilder had arrived in Denfield with only one suitcase.

What had he done with the other? He might simply have contained it back to his room in the Village. He hadn't. A quick trip down assured McKee of that. According to the janitor, no one had seen him nor his hair of Mr. Wilder since a young lady and him—the man pointed to Cavanaugh—had come looking for Wilder early the week before.

Grand Central next; the straw bag could have been checked there, or Wilder could have rented a locker. He had done neither. Establishing it, particularly the look box—they had a long wait for the official with the master keys—took more than an hour. There was one other place, the lost and found office on the west balcony.

There McKee got what he was after. The straw suitcase rested on a shelf in full view. It had been picked up near the information booth on the Tuesday night in question and turned in by a porter. The attendant produced it and said: "Here's the contents." McKee reached his hand and took the suitcase with him.

He carried it across to the balcony overlooking the great central room below. The balcony was dim, empty. McKee opened the suitcase. The catches were flimsy. He cut the cord and threw up the lid. The green raincoat was there, rolled into a bundle. And the thing the raincoat had been wrapped around was a beaten-up blond wig.

Tony Wilder was the tall woman in the green raincoat Cavanaugh had seen leaving the Hotel Bronson last Monday afternoon. He was the one Kit Haven had seen on the Third St. platform disguised as a woman. He was the collector of the candy box and the sweet contents.

prized, but he was both surprised and disconcerted. Tony Wilder had fooled him. He had judged the man as stupid, vain, weak—and very much in love with Libby Talbot. He had been wrong, and Hugo Cavanaugh had been right.

Cavanaugh said with satisfaction: "I told you so, inspector."

Wait a minute, McKee didn't say it aloud. Perhaps he hadn't been wrong. Wilder might be just as he had summoned him up, in love with the girl, not wanting to hurt her, but forced to do what he was told and not daring to rebel against the part he had been assigned to play. The clumsiness of the fashion in which he had got rid of the incriminating wig and raincoat showed that he was a master mind. Wilder was a puppet, and not the brains of the outfit.

Someone who wanted money badly, someone who knew it was there for the asking... That went for a number of people. Had McKee been in on it from the beginning? And what about Eleanor Oaks? McKee shunned the lid of the suitcase, snapped the only catch that held, retied the cord and made for the nearest phone booth.

He called the Denfield Inn first. Mr. Wilder wasn't on the premises, but hadn't checked out. He called the Haven house. George Corey answered and asked a question over his shoulder. Wilder had been gone a few minutes ago but was gone. McKee then called Capt. North at the state barracks. North said he'd go out on it himself. McKee said: "I'll be up later tonight. I'd like him in one piece, captain."

And rang Eleanor Oaks. There was no answer. He dialed the office. On last report, Mrs. Oaks and McKee were dining at the Blue Grotto; they had just left.

McKee was already overdue at Centre St. to see the commissioner. In answer to a question from Cavanaugh he said: "Yes, go up there if you like—but not a word of this to anyone," and tapped the suitcase.

Cavanaugh said: "O.K., Inspector. I can just catch a train."

Too bad Cavanaugh had seen the contents of the suitcase, McKee thought, but Capt. North would be on Wilder's tail. The Scotman dived for the subway.

"I'll tell you why I asked you to come down, McKee. The stuff is all here." Commissioner Carey touched a folder on the desk in front of him. "It's Col. Stott who wants you. Of course the request came through channels. Stott liked the work you did up there on the Cape last year. They appear to be having trouble, a couple of unexplained deaths—and Stott's worried."

"You're not working on anything particularly important right now, are you?"

"Well—"

"I thought the Jacobson affair was disposed of."

"That? Yes. But—" McKee gave Carey a quick outline of the Haven case, and Carey listened frowningly. The girl was back safe, as for the money—"Hardly your line, McKee."

"Not at the moment, commissioner."
